

3 Shots - 503 Yards

6.5mm BRM - Model 97D Rifle

“Using a load of 38 grains of VV N-160, CCI large rifle primer and Sierra Gameking 140 grain bullets I went to the range and shot groups from 100yds to 500yds to establish my drop table. (I tried many loads but this was the best). Attached you'll see the 500yd target - 3 shot group that was 2 inches center to center. I verified the range with a Bushnell rangefinder as 503yds. I was using a Swift mil-dot scope (not sure of model) holding dead on with the bottom mil-dot. The rifle was heavily sandbagged on an empty cable spool for a rest... So far this year this gun has taken 2 antelope, 3 deer and 2 elk... None of the deer or antelope took a step and dropped in their tracks, one elk dropped in its tracks and the other elk went less than 50 yards... 6.5 BRM is all you need from prairie dogs to elk. This rifle is light to carry, very very light recoil and really performs. You'll have an order for another one as soon as my son reaches hunting age here in Wyoming.” - Travis Crystal, 10/31/06
